

Erasmus School of
Health Policy
& Management

Uncertainty work in an emerging pandemic

An ethnography of healthcare management in a Dutch university hospital amidst the start of the COVID-19 pandemic

Erasmus University Rotterdam

Bert de Graaff, Jenske Bal,
Joke Boonstra & Roland Bal
EHMA, November 2020

A stylized, handwritten signature of the word "Erasmus" in black ink, with a fluid, cursive script.

Researching ‘uncertainty work’

Uncertainty work: ‘the concrete efforts that participants put into working with the uncertainties their organization faces’ (cf Moreira, May & Bond, 2009; Pickersgill, 2011).

Empirical research: one Dutch university hospital (March 5th onwards), over 210 hours of observation, 29 formal interviews, 2 focus groups. Focus on decision making, dealing with uncertainty.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Erasmus". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the letters "E" and "r" being particularly prominent.

COVID-19 in the Netherlands

- Start in early March 2020
- “Intelligent lockdown”
- Half of March: shortage of personal protection equipment, ventilators –focus on hospitals, lack of test capacity
- End of April: numbers of hospitalized patients in decline
- September: rising number of infected citizens, ‘second wave’ declared September 22nd.

Source: BMW Cahier

Erasmus

Tinkering with uncertainty

It [the troubles] only became more, more and more... at some point we discussed that we only had face masks for two more days. That was it! Each time I left the [local] OMT, I thought: 'What [...] is happening?!" [...] I kept on thinking; who [of us] will get sick? [...] It all came so very close. (Interview infectious disease specialist)

- Tinkering, innovating with PPE, space, personnel.

Erasmus

Governing uncertainty

- Trust:

R: [...]. I enjoyed getting to the essence for a while. [To] the things that really matter and not writing very long documents. [...] Trust, that if I ask you to organize this that that just got organized well... (Interview department head)

- Informal relations, cutting through existing workarounds

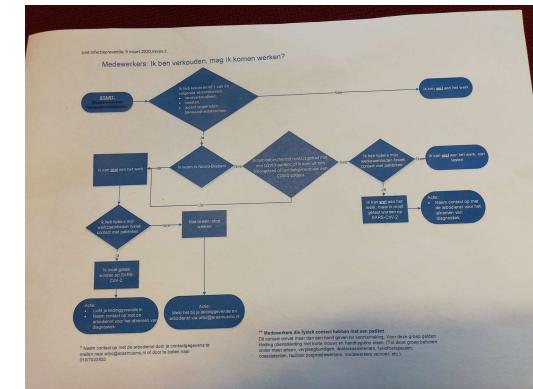

Bron: LinkedIn.com, dd. 5/3/2020

Erasmus

Stabilizing uncertainty

- Re-appraising professional expertise
- Ceaseless dialogue
- Numerous protocols, guidelines, flowcharts

“You make a flowchart; you force yourself to make choices. ‘All right, if someone chooses yes, you go to that side, but what happens when it is a no?’ This worked well in thinking how to deal with certain situations” (Interview expert infection prevention).

Erasmus

Conclusion

Uncertainty work: helps to describe 'work as done'

Three types of work:

- Tinkering: scarcity led to creative innovation
- Governing: trust, informal relations
- Stabilizing: professionals in the lead

High emotions, high time-pressure; new routines questioned in 2nd wave.

Erasmus School of
Health Policy
& Management

Thank you for your attention!

Contact:

M.B. (Bert) de Graaff, PhD
degraaff@eshp.eur.nl
+31(0)104088555